I understand that people are frightened but the last thing we want to do, is to take action that will fan those flames and make things worse and more dangerous.

Thanks Kim. But with respect, residents who are frightened today in their own homes are not experiencing a 'peaceful' protest.
I'm sure there is much I don't know that is happening in the background, but I must continue to call for the protection of residents.
It would also be good to hear from the Federal government.
Thanks
Catherine

Councillor McKenney,

I understand that this is frustrating but I believe that the answer I just provided Councillor Menard applies to your questions as well.

This has been passed on to Police and they will be discussing options. Right now Police are trying to manage a delicate balance between peaceful demonstration and a potential riot. Any of these proposed solutions need to be weighed carefully as they could be the tipping point.

Thanks for understanding.

I would like to know what the plan is to remove the protestors and heavy trucks from the QED and all residential neighborhoods. This cannot continue throughout the downtown again today.

Thank you

Catherine

Further to this, traffic.ottawa.ca is an excellent interactive map where you can zoom in on specific locations and see real-time footage from their cameras of what is happening at a specific location.

This may be an easier and bilingual resource to use for residents asking about specific traffic information so they don't have to scroll and look through an entire twitter feed. However, all closures that @ottawa_traffic is aware of will be posted by their team who collate their information from multiple trusted sources.

Personally, I used the traffic.ottawa.ca all day yesterday for an accurate picture of the downtown core and to see any Hwy 417 congestion. It is an excellent tool.

Subject: RE: Sunday Communications Update

The City of Ottawa will post traffic/road closure updates to ottawa.ca, @ottawacity and @Ottawa_Traffic.

Traffic management will be fluid and ever-changing depending on vehicles and crowds as they gather and disperse. The most up to the minute updates will be available from the City of Ottawa's Traffic Management folks (@ottawa_traffic).

They will tweet this update about interprovincial bridge crossings momentarily:

Interprovincial Crossings: Macdonald-Cartier accessible, Alexandra closed, Portage N/B accessible, Chaudiere accessible, Champlain accessible. #otttraffic

Traverses interprovinciales: Macdonald-Cartier accessible, Alexandra fermée, Portage d/n accessible, Chaudière accessible, Champlain accessible. #ottcircule

QUESTIONS

If Councillors have questions throughout the event, you are invited to stay in contact with Acting Superintendent Dave Zackrias [REDACTED] and Acting Inspector John Mbakulo [REDACTED].

Chair and Members of the Board,

Here are draft messages being shared by our media and social media team this morning.

Further messaging related to Bridge closures will follow.

Call me if you have communications-related questions.

John

Overnight Related

Large crowds remained in the downtown core throughout the night and were actively managed by police. Officers encountered several challenges with demonstrators including sporadic road blockages by trucks, which officers worked to clear.

These high risk situations were deescalated and resolved with no arrests.

Morning Related

Police are patrolling throughout the downtown core, managing the movement of protestors and trucks.

We are also responding calls for service throughout the city.

The OPS and our partners continue to be focused on keeping the peace in and around the demonstrations, maintaining emergency access lanes while addressing any threatening, high risk behavior.

We continue to have a very large police presence today in the core and at all large demonstration locations. Please follow the directions of the police, emergency responders and City officials.

National monuments will be protected and should be respected by all people at all times. Barricades have been installed to block any vehicular access to the path in front of the National War Memorial.

Do not travel to the downtown core. For residents and businesses in the core, police are working to mitigate the impacts of the demonstration such as gridlock and parked vehicles and thank residents and business owners for their patience.
